Subject: SI and H Experimentation, 12 May 1953

On 12 May 1953, SI and H Experimentation was conducted by [redacted] and the writer with the following volunteers in Room 20, Building 13: [redacted]

A

For matter of record, it should be noted that [redacted] was returning to work after a number of weeks owing to administrative difficulties and this was her second session in the work.

Since all subjects present knew approximately what was required of them and had made good efforts on their first starts, a slow induction test was run on all the subjects as a group. At the conclusion of these tests, every subject was given a code word as a PH suggestion and each subject was quickly placed into a deep H state by the use of the code word.

While each subject in the second test was run individually, tests for normal movement, conversation, opening eyes, etc. were tried and in general results showed marked improvement over previous attempts.

This session was concluded by another rapid induction in which all PH commands which had been given were erased, except a PH hand raising test after the count of 5 had been reach on the awakening procedure. In this PH, all subjects responded very well except [redacted] who at the count of 5 dropped her arms completely while all other subjects responding to the Ph found their arms raised into the air above their shoulders. This session was concluded at approximately 9:00 PM and in general it may be said the group is progressing reasonably well for the amount of time consumed.
